WEDNESDAY, APRIL 5, 1876.

THE KENTUCKY DEMOCRACY.

Call for a State Convention to Nominate an Electoral Ticket and Appoint Delegates to the St. Louis Convention.

At a meeting of the Democratic State Executive and Central Committees this day, held at the office of Isaac Caldwell, in the city of Louisville, a convention of the Democratic party of Kentucky was called to meet in the city of Louisville on the 25th day of May, 1876, at 12 o'clock, m., for the purpose of nominating a Democratic electoral ticket for Kentucky in the Presidential election of 1876, and for the purpose of appointing delegates to the United States Democratic convention to be held at St. Louis on the 27th day of June, 1876, and to take other action for the organization and general good of the party. By resolution adopted at said meeting, the county committees for the several counties in the State are respectfully requested to give due notice and take proper steps to hold primary meetings of the Democratic voters of their counties for the purpose of appointing delegates to said convention. In order to insure a full representation of the party, the several counties are requested to send one delegate for every one hundred votes, and one for every fraction over fifty cast for James B. McCreary for Governor, at the last gubernatorial election; and the said primary meetings are also requested to name suitable persons for county committeemen in their respective counties, and cause them to be reported to said convention, or to authorize their delegates to said convention to name such county committee.

The Democratic papers of Kentucky are respectfully requested to publish this call. ISAAC CALDWELL, Ch'n.

Hon. I. A. Spaulding.

This distinguished gentleman paid our county a visit last week. Elsewhere will be seen his announcement as a candidate for Congress. Mr. Spaulding is a man of middle age, is a profound lawyer, a gentleman of untarnished character and integrity, and is a democrat in the fullest sense of the name. He is not a chronic aspirant for office. The people of his Senatorial district took him up and elected him to the Senate in 1867, where he served four years, making a brilliant record for himself. He stood up manfully for the interest of his constituents. Mr. Spaulding lives on his farm near Morganfield, Union county, and carries on farming very extensively, as well as practicing law. He is a man of indomitable energy, and should be elected, we feel assured he will fill the position creditably. He will visit us again soon.

Republican Convention.

The convention of the Republicans of Ohio county, was held at Hartford, on the 3rd day of April, 1876. The meeting was called to order by Geo. C. Wedding Esq. who briefly stated the object of the meeting to be the selection of delegates to the Republican Convention to be held at Louisville, Ky., on the 18th day of May, next. On motion of Dr. W. J. Berry, Robt. Duncan, of Cool Spring precinct was chosen Chairman over Remus Gibson, nominated by E. L. Wise. E. C. Hubbard and Jas. A. Park, were chosen Secretaries. On motion of Dr. W. J. Berry, the following were appointed a committee on Resolutions Wm. King, Isaac Axton, Wm. Keith, W. D. McIntyre, Thos. Landrum, Jas. Rogers, A. P. Hudson, and E. L. Wise. The committee retired and while absent the Convention was addressed by Hon. O. P. Johnson, eulogizing the several candidates prominent for the Presidential nomination. In the midst of his speech, the committee on Resolutions appeared and reported through their chairman, Dr. W. J. Berry, the following, which upon motion of Geo. C. Wedding, were adopted separately.

RESOLUTIONS.

1st. We are for a unity of the nation and the just rights of the States; for the full reconciliation and enduring harmony of all sections; for the preservation of the results of the war, and the constitutional rights of every citizen, for thorough reformation and reform; for the unsparing pursuit, exposure and punishment of public frauds and official dishonesty; for the elevation of the public service and pure and efficient government; for maintaining untarnished the National credit and honor; for sound currency of coin, or paper convertible into coin, and for the common schools absolutely free from sectarian influences.

2d. Without regard to past differences, we cordially invite all who believe that the direction of the Government should not pass into the hands of those who seek to destroy it, and all who wish a pure and economical government administered by honest, capable officers, to unite with us in fraternal and mutual considerate co-operation for the promotion of these ends.

3d. We emphatically condemn the dishonesty and treachery of every official who is faithless to his trust, and approve the injunction, let no guilty man, however high, escape. We believe the virtue of the people which saved the nation through the war will protect it from the dangers of corruption. We commend the good work of the National Administration in protecting the public treasury and punishing offenders.

4th. That we favor the nomination at Cincinnati of candidates who have not, either immediately or remotely, been connected with frauds upon the Government, or with the friends of those who have, and the candidates so nominated should be men whose records, integrity and abilities are above suspicion, and whose personal characters are such that will afford a guaranty of thorough reform in the administration of the Government.

5th. As a Statesman and a patriot of the highest ability and character, whose public career is without reproach; who has faithfully served the cause of freedom and union throughout the great struggle of the past fifteen years; who has been steadfast to equal rights and financial honesty, and the unflinching exponent of Republican principles, and who possesses the experience, capacity, courage and principle which qualify him to give strength and honor to our government, we present B. H. Bristow as our choice for President.

6th. That W. J. Berry, O. P. Johnson, E. C. Hubbard, E. L. Wise, R. F. Taylor, J. J. Leach, Robt. Duncan, Robt. Wedding, G. C. Wedding, James Axton, James Stevens, Isaac Axton, Wm. Keith, and all other true Republicans, are appointed delegates to the Republican Convention to be held at Louisville.

7th. That these resolutions be published in the HARTFORD HERALD and Louisville Commercial.

Hon. O. P. Johnson, moved to substitute the name of Hon. O. P. Morton, for the name of Gen. B. H. Bristow. Upon this substitute there was an exciting contest, and the Convention was treated to a series of speeches on both sides of the question. Robt. G. Wedding and O. P. Johnson, favored an instruction for Morton, while James Rogers, Dr. W. J. Berry and E. C. Hubbard, favored the report of the committee. A vote was taken, but it not being satisfactory, O. P. Johnson and E. C. Hubbard were appointed tellers to count the vote. Upon the count being taken, the tellers failed to agree as to the number, and it was finally consented that the vote was a tie, whereupon the Chairman gave the casting vote in favor of Gen. Bristow, thus ending the contest. On motion of Hon. O. P. Johnson, Geo. C. Wedding was unanimously recommended for the position of Elector of the 2nd Congressional District, and as being a young lawyer of fine ability and fully able to cope with the best speakers of the opposition. The attendance was large, and general order and good humor prevailed.

COMMUNICATED.

CHERRY GROVE April 3,

EDITOR HERALD.—As I have seen nothing in your paper from our vicinity, I will try and let your readers know we still exist. No sickness in our midst. Farmers are backward with their crops in consequence of the late snow and rain, very few are done sowing oats. Wheat generally looks well, most of our farmers have their last crop of tobacco on hand expecting to prize. Your paper of 22 of March caused some excitement among the married ladies here, you said "married men running off with young girls, is getting very common." I think the excitement unnecessary, if half the men could get young girls to run off with them, our community would be benefited. Our nice widows would arouse the sympathy of some of Ohio's handsome bachelors, and leap-year weddings would be fashionable. I will close for fear of wearying your patience, kind HERALD. IDA.

Rat Bite.

Albert Chinn, a boy nine years old, son of James S. Chinn of this county, was bitten by a rat one night last week. He was sound asleep, and when he awoke the rat had bitten through his under lip, and he had hold of it pulling it loose. He bled quite freely, and his lip began to swell very fast. He called for help, and aroused the family, who washed off the blood and bathed it freely with Perry Davis' Pain Killer, which stopped the bleeding and swelling at once, and he has suffered but little inconvenience from it since.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 1, 76.

GRANT STILL IN THE FIELD—WHAT MOSEBY SAYS ABOUT IT.

I have just seen Col. Moseby who is, as you know, one of Grant's right bowers. He had just come from a conference with the President at the White House, and he says that Grant is still in the field as a candidate for re-election—that he considers the New Hampshire election an endorsement of his administration, and is determined, if possible, to secure a third term. If this is true, we may expect lively times with Blaine, Morton and Co., who thought Boss out of the race. They may not be willing to take back seats now.

CONNECTICUT WILL GO DEMOCRATIC.

A short time ago, Grant's Washington Ring sent a man to Connecticut to request the Chairman of the Central Committee of that State to make a searching investigation of the probable result of the election on Monday, April 3. The utmost pains were taken by the Connecticut radical official, who was well paid by Grant's Ring for his labor, and was requested to give the facts, and the facts only. His report, which has just arrived, has cast a gloom over the Ring circles. He says that he regrets to be obliged to state, as the result of his investigation, that the Democratic party will certainly carry the State by a majority of about three thousand.

MONTGOMERY BLAIR

has created a very perceptible stir in political circles in Washington, by the publication of a letter in favor of Tilden. The fact that Mr. Blair is not a Tilden man from personal preference, but from what he conceives to be party necessity, gives more weight to his views than they would otherwise have. One thing noticeable in connection with this subject; there is a growing disposition to consider the interest of the party as a unit, rather than the interest of any one section or fraction. The man who can carry the most States will be the nominee, if these wise counsels prevail; and, whoever he may be, Hendricks, Thurman, Bayard, Tilden, Davis or Parker, he will receive the united support of a party organized for success, and not to be defeated by internal discussion. And to insure success beyond the chance of failure, he must be the man who can draw the largest support from the ranks of the enemy. Mr. Blair, who was a member of Lincoln's Cabinet, says that Tilden is the man, and offers a strong argument to it. There are men here to-day, bitterly opposed to Tilden, because of his attitude on the money question; but I believe, from the tone of observation here during the past few days, that there is a determination to do nothing that will imperil our success in the election.

A GOOD WORD FOR THE DEMOCRATIC HOUSE.

The dissemination of news from every other portion of the civilized world to every other portion, by telegraph, has made the correspondent a commoner upon, rather than an announcer of events. Just at this time, Washington is the scene of rapidly succeeding incidents of vital interest to the country; and to faithfully chronicle the details of each day's news would take more space than many times the limits of a letter. Many things of importance occur to which I do not even allude; because, before my letter can reach you, your readers will have become familiar with the facts through the telegraph. But the telegraph can do no more than furnish brief outlines, and it is still the province of the correspondent to supply the substance of such information as may be of special interest to the reader. The correspondent whom you know, and upon whose truthfulness you can depend, is of special importance to your readers at this time, when it is the universal complaint of our party that the telegraph has been used against us in an attempt to create public opinion adverse to the Democratic House. No Congress has ever labored harder, or accomplished more in the same length of time, than has the present one; yet the impression has gone through the country that valuable time has been wasted, and nothing done. The work done has been, much of it, of a character that renders secrecy a necessity. And, while the House may have appeared to do little, the committees have labored incessantly, night and day. In addition to the necessary legislation, it has developed upon the House to unearth and drag to the light a mass of official corruption and malfeasance in office, without precedent in the history of any government. The rotten accumulations of fifteen years of Republican misrule are suddenly disclosed, and lie festering in public sight. The abuses and villainies which have been covered up and winked at by the Republican majorities of previous houses, it is the duty of the present democratic majority to uncover, and bring the guilty officials to justice. This has been so well done that there are at this time a score of investigations in progress. And the work is not yet half commenced. With all that has been disclosed, the people are not prepared for the depth of villainy that will yet be brought to light.

Who could have believed that men could be found so lost to all sense of honor or decency as to bury the bones of horses and mules in the national cemeteries; or worse, to divide one body into several parts, putting them into different graves because they were paid so much for each grave? And yet, this has been done by men living in the very shadow of the White House, and favored with the personal friendship of Grant, himself.

"SENATOR" SPENCER.

There is a very evident intention on the part of the Senate Committee on Elections, which has Spencer's case before it to whitewash that political adventurer; and, if it is possible to suppress or reject evidence enough to render a decision in his favor possible, it will certainly be done. The evidence already given would serve to convict him before any impartial tribunal; and more testimony is coming.

GENERAL SCIENCK

made a very creditable appearance before the Committee of Foreign Affairs of the House yesterday; and it may be possible that he has, at the most, been guilty of an indiscretion. At all events, his offence is less venial than some known to have been committed by Grant, Babcock & Co.

MORE REPUBLICAN FRAUDS.

The Interior Department has been filled with jobs upon which thieves, big and little from Delano and his son, John, down to the chief clerk just dismissed, have fattened. The startling disclosures of fraud in the Land Office and Indian Bureau, just brought to light, are likely to lead to the criminal indictment of several radical officials, among them Ex-Commissioner Smith, of the Indian Bureau, and possibly Delano himself.

HARTFORD, KY., March 27, 1876.

EDITOR HERALD:—I herewith enclose you a copy of a letter from the Hon. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C. The letter is of considerable importance to the tobacco growers. You will please publish it for their benefit.

Respectfully,
W. T. KING, Dept. Collr.

OFFICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE, }
WASHINGTON, MAR. 14, 1876. }

SIR—I have received yours of the 10th inst. inclosing a letter addressed to you from R. D. Hunter, in which he states certain propositions on which he desires the opinion of this office.—

In reply to the first: "Does the producer have the right to sell to his neighbors for their own use tobacco by the small quantity in hands?" I reply in the negative. See the proviso to the fifth paragraph of section 3,244 of the Revised Statutes.

"Has the producer the right to have his tobacco, or a portion of it, manufactured for his own use?" I reply that the producer of leaf tobacco may manufacture the whole or a portion of his product for his own use exclusively on the premises where it is grown, without becoming liable to a specific tax on tobacco, snuff or cigars which he has prepared for his own use. If, however, he sells such manufactured tobacco he would become liable for a special tax as a manufacturer, and to the specific tax imposed by law on the manufactured products, or if he removes, transfers, assigns, or consigns his leaf tobacco to any other person to be manufactured for him into snuff, cigars, chewing or smoking tobacco, these articles would be liable to their specific taxes before they left the hands of the party who had manufactured them.

In conclusion, I have to say that while the law does not tax tobacco when it is grown, manipulated, and consumed by the farmer himself, it does tax in some shape all tobacco sold for consumption in the United States.

Very respectfully,
D. D. PRATT, Commissioner.

Connecticut went Democratic Monday by a handsome majority.

We had a Parrot in town last Fri-human being, and could converse somewhat intelligibly.

Mrs. Ann Barnes, wife of Mr. John estimable lady. Her funeral took place on Sunday and was very largely attended.

Everybody should attend the enter-nights, at the courthouse.

Little Mary Griffin, daughter of Z.

one day last week, while attending she fell against a hot stove, burning seriously, however, and she has about recovered from it.

Who can Beat our Beet.

Mrs. Dorcas Carson, wife of Jas. F.

was raised in her garden last year.
It measured 23 inches around the weighed 9 pounds and 15 ounces.

Can anybody beat it.

Go to the court-house Thursday night, and learn all about "Waterfalls."

When you see a man that shuffles loosely along, with his knees knocking together and his toes pointing in—whose eyes roll furtively and whose hand is ever suddenly jerking itself above his head as if warding off a blow, you can rely upon it that that man is haunted by a mother-in-law—but when you see a party who lifts his feet high, and holds his nose in air, and has one eye shut in a knowing manner, and whose mouth is distended with a self-complacent grin, and who seems to feel good all over; you can bet

Old maids and bachelors, do not grow despondent, for there is hope for you yet if you will only locate in Hartford, for it is a great place for Weddings. We have had a Wedding in town almost every day through the fall and winter, and since about the middle of February, we have frequently had two Weddings in town a day, and since the 23rd of March, we have had an average of three Weddings a day in town with the exception of one or two days. The prospects are that within the next year the average number of Weddings in this town, will be increased one and may be two. Who can beat it in a town of less than a thousand inhabitants.

No need of going to Philadelphia to

To the Masters of subordinate Granges of Ohio county, Ky.:—You are hereby notified that there will be a County Grange organized at Goshen church, two miles south of Hartford, on Friday the 14th day of April 1876.
Granges that have decided to connect themselves with the organization, will send their delegates forward at that time, and those that have not taken action should do so before that time.

FROM ROSINE.

ROSINE, KY., April 3d

EDITOR HERALD:—Not seeing any communications from our quiet little village for sometime, I have concluded this morning to pen a few lines for the columns of your most excellent paper, though I fear that I shall fail to prove interesting, on account of absence of anything to communicate.

Business in this part of the county seems to be living up considerably, notwithstanding the tobacco is yet generally in the hands of the producers, and mostly unsold. Buyers are very reluctant about purchasing, especially at the prices the farmers are now asking. A great number of the farmers are making arrangements to have their crops priced. The indications are that there will be a great effort made to pitch a large crop the present year.
The very excessive cold weather which we have for the last few weeks experienced, it is believed by all, has killed the fruit.

Wheat crops in this part of the county are looking unusually well. There was a larger crop sown last fall than has been for many years.

Rev. W. W. Cook of Hartford, delivered a very able discourse on the evils of intemperance, at this place, on the 17th inst., to a large and appreciative audience.

On the 18th inst was Squire Telford's court, and the docket was small. The legal profession was represented by Hubbard and Wedding, of Hartford.

A few days since, a couple of persons in the shape of human beings, and bearing the holy name of woman, accompanied by one of the degenerated offspring of the devil, in the person of one Will Cook, came into this neighborhood, and stopping in old out-houses, commenced perpetrating crime so black that at the sight of which the very cheek of darkness would turn pale. Squire Telford at once issued writs of arrest and placed them in the hands of constable Ezell, who, after much maneuvering, succeeded in arresting the trio, and placing them under bond to await their trial. The probabilities are that the jailor will have a few boarders.

A school has just opened here under the management of Miss Ella Day, who as a disciplinarian and a thorough instructor, is equalled by but few, and surpassed by none. The public school which was taught by Mrs. Telford, and which closed a short time since, was a decided success, as demonstrated by the rapid progress made by the pupils. There is a great deal of interest manifested in education at this place, and vicinity. AGRICOLA.

When Beaver Dam church was burned, the citizens of Hartford gave $700 to help rebuild it. Now Hartford asks Beaver Dam to help her back. Do so by coming to the plays Thursday and Friday nights.

GRAYSON COUNTY ITEMS.
The news of the County, by our Grayson Correspondent.

There is a vein of lead ore on the farm of Mr. Mark Shain, of Pine Knob, in this county, that might become a paying investment to capitalists. The vein has been worked to some extent, but through the incompetency of those employed in the work, and lack of funds to prosecute the undertaking, it has been suffered to lie idle ever since.
This region of the country abounds in several valuable minerals, and is bound to become a prosperous mining district in the near future.

The answer to "Miserable Snow," published in the HERALD of the 15th, is something out of the common run of versification. Only a genius could have conceived the idea of his grandmother picking geese, for a poetical comparison of a snow storm. But we are told "genius," as a general thing, "dies young," and we will await with breathless expectation, the obituary notice in the pages of the HERALD, informing us that the writer "has gone to help his grandmother pick her geese in heaven."

In some sections of our county hogs are dying in great numbers from cholera. If the disease continues to spread Grayson county will be sadly deficient in this kind of stock, as last fall hundreds died from the same cause.

With the exception of Spring Lick, all the stations in this county on the line of the L. P. & S. W. Railroad are making rapid strides in the way of improvements. Caneyville, Millwood, Litchfield and Grayson Spring Station are all building more or less, and business among their merchants is beginning to be a little livelier, showing a decrease in the matter of hard times, that is truly pleasant to contemplate.

A STRANGE DOG.

A gentleman residing near Millwood possesses one of the most extraordinary canine curiosities we have ever beheld.
The animal in question possesses a great many traits of the dog, but, as uncle John expressed it, "the vermin's there sure." In size, it is as large as a common rat-terrier, the color being a dark-reddish brown, while each hind foot is furnished with claws, resembling those of the coon, only longer and heavier. The fore feet are, in every particular, canine, while the body takes the long, lithe form of the weasel, the ears standing straight and pointed. The eyes have a wild, unnatural look that gives to the physiognomy of the creature a strange elfish appearance and strikes the beholder with a cold icy dread, while the long pointed nose proclaims its coonish origin.

There is not the least spark of canine affection in this strange animal, and although the children have tried to pet him from his youngest days, he never would allow any of them to fondle or become too familiar with him. He stays about the barn in the winter season, and only comes to the house when compelled by hunger, while in summer he invariably takes up with one particular cow, following her each morning to the woods pasture and returning only when she returns at night.

The creature has that dread of other dogs noticeable in all wild animals, and at the approach of one will seek safety in some friendly covert, or in wild, headlong flight.

Go to the court-house Thursday night and learn how to be a "Manager."

Silver Mine in Grayson County.

GRAYSON SPRINGS STATION, KY., April 3d, 1876

EDITOR HERALD:—I give you the following as related to me by Mr. Jeff Pickersel, a reliable gentleman of this neighborhood:

One Mr. Stone, while traveling through Texas, was informed by an old lady from Indiana that in Grayson county, Kentucky, on Meater creek, there was a silver mine, and that there were two barrels of money hid within it. In describing the location, she said that there was a beech tree standing near by, with the representation of two pistols and an eagle's wing engraved in the bark. Mr. Stone returned to Kentucky, and in company with Mr. Drain, visited the precincts described by the Indiana lady, and found the beech precisely as above described. The old lady also told Stone, that she was very small when she marked the mine, and that she was compelled to leave in a hurry, and not being able to take the money with her was forced to throw it into the hole or cave where she had been at work, and cover it up the best way she could.

Stone and Drain have been digging in the cave, but no one knows whether they have found the money or not. The land on which the treasure is concealed doesn't belong to Stone & Drain, and consequently they have to work on the sly. I do not think Mr. Pickersel told me how the facts were discovered, but it has been found out by the owner of the land. I guess the mine will be well explored.

AGRICULTURAL.

Sheep Husbandry.

BY W. D. COLEMAN.

[Written for the Hartford Herald.]

Of the many branches of farming which engage the attention of the intelligent agriculturist, probably no one has been more neglected in the United States, and more especially in Kentucky, than Sheep Husbandry. And this is the more remarkable when we consider the important part which it plays in the commercial history of our country. While in Europe the demand for wool and other products of the sheep has stimulated the raising and management of the animal on the most scientific and economical basis, and the establishment in Australia, of immense flocking stations, the market in this country is seldom that the farmer manifests more interest in our subject than is evidenced by the possession of a few scrubby animals, whose only recommendation is that they cost him nothing, and will probably continue to do so.

We propose, in this article, to give briefly, our views on the subject of Sheep Husbandry in a plain unscientific form, merely promising that they are the results of practical experience and observation for twenty years.

We are of the opinion, after taking all things into consideration, that the Cotswold, as a pure breed, is the best adapted to this country, though we prefer them mixed with the Merino, as this gives what the Cotswold lacks in thickness of the coat and adds to the fineness of the wool, while the Cotswold has the advantage over other breeds in size and length of wool.

In confirmation of this we may state that the average weight of our wethers one year ago at shearing time (1st of May) was 192½ pounds and these were mixed as above suggested.

should be built on dry ground with apartments for the breeding ewes and for the weaned lambs. The house should be well drained, and in case of any dampness whatever the sheep should have plenty of dry bedding. In any case the litter should be removed once a week.

Our experience as to the form of house is that tight stables about six feet high, well ventilated above with small openings, and the lower part of the ground, if a level, should be covered with a layer of straw or hay.

We notice that some writers advise the use of sheep sheds, pointing South, but our experience is in favor of more open sheds, such as we have indicated. The rack for feeding hay should be placed about two feet from the wall, perpendicular, with a broad plank for a bottom, inclined so as to bring the hay to the foot. This prevents the seed from getting in the wool. The slats of the rack should not be more than 2½ inches apart.

There is a great variety of opinion as to the best method of feeding, and as to what kind of food suits best, and without animadverting on the ideas of others we give our views.

We feed corn, about two ears a day, shelled and put in the trough. If the sheep is healthy, and in good condition this grain is enough.

If not in good health, feed less corn and give a little bran or threshed oats, or the heads of sheep oats cut fine. Corn fodder is one of the worst foods that can be given to sheep in winter, as it renders them costive and has a tendency to make them feverish, which soon grows into a chronic disease with a dry, hard, cough, and the animal dwindles and dies or becomes worthless. We feed hay for roughness altogether, and let them have all they will eat. With this manner of feeding and housing we have shown as much as 10 pounds 2 ounces the flock around.

The very best of animals should be kept for breeding. Never breed from an inferior animal, no matter how well bred, or you will soon ruin your flock. This holds good in ewes as well as in bucks. No ewe or buck is fit to breed from that has not a good constitution, and in order to have this they must be shaped right with a broad deep chest, ribbing out well from the top of the back, long in the body running square to the hind quarters, short in legs, with good bone. If they have not these points it is better to mutton them at once. As a proof of this take the mares of the country in general, and there is not one in three that ought to be bred at all, yet every one that will bring a colt is bred. The best horses are selected for breeders, and still the country is flooded with worthless animals from these inferior mares.

The same thing holds good in all stock, and we may even go to the human race and find it there.

GENERAL TREATMENT. Especial care should be taken to prevent the sheep from getting wet in winter. They should be kept in the house in wet weather. If they are allowed to get wet it takes the coat two or three days to dry, and in case of a change to sudden cold weather the animal is found to suffer, sometimes taking deep cold. Nor is this all. It requires a large amount of extra food to keep up the animal heat, and if this is not given, the animal soon gets low in flesh and that stops the growth of wool, and necessarily cuts down your profits.

Ewes that give a large quantity of milk should be milked once a day till the lamb is three or four days old. We always do this and never have a spoilt lamb.

Bucks should never be allowed to go to their own lambs, as our experience is that all in-bred animals soon become weak jointed and short lived. Bucks should not be allowed to go to more than 25 ewes and even in that case it would be best to feed about three pints of ground wheat or oats. When treated in this way your lambs will be strong and healthy at birth.

Points in Corn Culture.

A corn grower in the corn state of Illinois makes the following points:

1st. In the fall and winter the ground should be plowed from eight to ten inches deep, but in the spring from four to six inches deep is enough. It does not pay to go down in search of a new farm at that time of the year.

2d. It does not pay to plow corn stalks under the ground unless the land is wet or liable to bake.

3d. Corn, drilled one stalk in a hill, does not grow so strong at first, and is harder to keep clean than if planted two or more together.

4th. Corn checked and plowed both ways is injured more by storms and drought than if drilled.

5th. Two stalks every two feet has proved the best with me.

6th. Corn that is well harrowed and plowed twice will be cleaner and grow better than if plowed three times without being harrowed.

We should be pleased to hear the views of our corn-growing readers on the cultivation of this important staple. It will be useful to compare ideas and methods of practice, and lessen the cost of a bushel of corn if possible.

Twelve Rules for Successful Farming.

1. Drain thoroughly. 2. Plow deep and loosen the subsoil. 3. Provide good storage for solid manure.

4. Choose commercial fertilizers intelligently, and do not use one in excess of another simply because others have used it. 5. Manure every crop which benefits by it, and manure high. 6. Cultivate all safe, paying crops, and select the best seed for these. 7. Cultivate every crop upon your fields, in proper rotation. 8. Cultivate more and better hay. 9. Feed plentiful and of the best hay. 10. Breed stock, and not let mere accident control the increase. 11. Support breeding and feeding by proper care. 12. Keep accounts.

Healthy Breakfasts.

In a large majority of cases, says Hall's Journal of Health, it will be found that the best and healthiest meal of the day should be eaten in the morning. If the closing repast of the day has not been eaten too late, or has not been excessive in quantity or indigestible in quality, the stomach will be rested and active in the morning after the individual has enjoyed a cool, bath. The stomach will then respond quickly with the necessary gastric juice for the solution of food, and, if a fair amount of exercise is taken during the day, a large mass of food will be assimilated and converted into blood and tissue. With a good, substantial breakfast, no great amount of food will be required during the remainder of the day.

How to cure Scratches in Horses.

First cleanse the heels well from all dirt and other foreign matter with strong suds made by means of carbolic soap and warm water. This done, dry the parts well and be careful to remove all soapy water thoroughly from the sore in order to prevent the collection of dirt. Then dress the heels with a lotion composed of carbolic acid, one part; cold water, forty parts, three times a day. In one-quarter of an hour after using the lotion, rub over the diseased surface with glycerine, and keep the parts supplied with it. Give him, mixed in his feed grain, night and morning, one and a half ounces of liquor arsenicalis each time, and continue this treatment for a time after his heels have dried up.—Turf, Field and Farm.

The Rev. A. B. Kendrick says to the majahs: "To accept a challenge to fight a duel, or stand in the prize-ring, for pugilistic pummeling, is a courage of which the horned bovine and the snarling bull-dog are capable. But to see a wrong and expose it, a fashionable sin and withstand it, a personal weakness and overcome it, a powerful temptation and resist it, is that high order of courage of which only the truest man is capable."

Mary Murdoch Mason divides her sex into three classes—the giddy butleries, the busy bees and the woman's righters. The first are pretty and silly, the second plain and useful, the third mannish and odious. The first wear long, trailing dresses and smile at you while waltzing; the second wear aprons and give you apple-dumplings; and the third want your manly prerogatives, your dress coat, your money and your vote.
